

Terms and conditions of participation

Participation in the online courses of PV-iTeach is free of charge. In order to obtain the certificates, fees are charged, the amount of which depends on the scope and workload of the certificate. After completion of the online course as self-study, examination can be taken in the online format free of charge. The issuance of a certificate based on the passed exam is subject to a fee.

Your registration for the certificate is required in written form and is binding (via the platform südwissen.de or also by fax or e-mail). After completed registration you will receive a confirmation of receipt.

After registration you will receive the invoice. The certificate fee is due at this time.

Please note that extra bank fees may be charged for international transfers; please contact your bank for more information.

Withdrawal

Registration for the certificate is binding and withdrawal is not possible.

Time of the exam

The exam takes place online and the time can be chosen by the course participants individually. A repetition of the examination is possible at any time free of charge.

Certificates of participation

Upon completion of the exam, participants have the option to receive a certificate subject to a fee if they successfully pass. The exam can be repeated in case of failure.

Disclaimer

The university, its members, relatives or vicarious agents are not liable for damages caused to the participants' belongings and brought-in objects, unless the damage was caused intentionally or by gross negligence. This does not apply to personal injury caused in this context. No liability is assumed for consequential damages. The legal regulations apply.
